RE- FLECTING GOD

12/13/11 - Through the Eyes of Children

RG AUDIO 121311 John 1:1-18

We have all seen children depict Jesus through drawings. He is always wearing a white robe with long curly hair. He is always smiling. Often, he is carrying a little lamb or holding hands with children, or maybe knocking on a closed door. It is even becoming more popular for children to draw Jesus as a cartoon character. Jesus feels very close to them while they draw him. The Jesus they draw is the gentle Jesus of their imaginations and prayers. Through their art they experience Jesus in their lives.

However, it's hard for them to draw God. They draw God as a beam of light or voice because they know that God is a Spirit. What if his Spirit didn't come to us in the person of Jesus? How would we think of him? How would we understand that God is real in our lives?

God has made himself real to us through Jesus.
