Matthew 13:36-43

Want to hear some good news? There is a day coming when evil will be extinguished. The evil one, who lures us away into death, has a day of reckoning coming. With evil's eradication all brokenness will be healed and the world's original beauty restored. The prosperity of God's people will again be bountiful. The removal of evil from the world will enable God's children to walk with him in unhindered fellowship again. They will taste the sweetness of life which has long been soured by the carnage of sin.

When the Lord Jesus makes his triumphant return, this promise of a world cleansed of evil will become a reality. In perhaps their greatest act of service to mankind, the angels of God will scour every inch of creation root up "everything that causes sin and all who do evil." Careful attention will be given to ensure not one bit of evil will remain. The evil induced brokenness and carnage that covers our world today is not permanent. A day of rebirth and renewal is coming. Oh, what a day that will be!
