2 Corinthians 4:1-6

The searing sun was scorching the earth. Jesus and his disciples had just left Jericho. A large crowd was following them. During their journey, they passed two blind men who were sitting beside the road. Realizing Jesus was coming, the men began to call, "Lord, Son of David, have mercy on us!" Their cries rose above the din of the crowd. Jesus stopped. "What do you want me to do for you?" he asked. "Lord, we want our sight" (Matt. 20:29-33).

Isn't that the cry of the multitudes in our world today? "We want to see through the details, the problems, the hurried schedule, the chaos!" Sifting through our muddled thoughts, we are really clamoring, "We want to clearly see you, Jesus! We want the peace that only you can give!" It is true; we can only "see" through him. He is the one who created light in this world; but, most importantly, he is the one who shines in our hearts. Let's allow him to guide our daily decisions. That way we can have access to the "knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus."

Let's allow Jesus to illuminate our hearts and minds today.
