RE- FLECTING GOD

04/12/15 - Our High Priest Intercedes For Us

RG AUDIO 041215

Hebrews 7:11-25

I was overwhelmed by "newness" in my first days at college. I was in a new setting, eating new food, with new people who had new stories to tell. All my classes were new and hours of study pushed me to new limits. At times it was easy to become overwhelmed with all the changes. I longed for a connection to something and someone familiar. To be honest there were even times I longed for home. Home didn't seem too bad after standing in a long line for a morning shower in the dorm.

I was fortunate to have parents who loved me and seemed to know when I might be struggling. I don't know how they knew, but they knew. They seemed to call at just the right time to encourage me. I found out later why their timing was so good. They were praying for me and God would impress upon them when they needed to call. It made a difference.

In Christ we have someone who loves us more than any parent. He is constantly interceding for us. What a comfort. What a miracle. What an opportunity. How is this reality going to change how you live today?
