2 Corinthians 8:16-24

There is man in a creative access area known as "the Librarian" who has taken the initiative to establish a Christian library in a country where it is illegal to own a Bible. The Librarian's desire is to see believers have access to God's Word and other Christian materials caused him to take the initiative. He didn't wait for permission or a salary, but out of his own resources and time established a library that is available to believers and leaders serious about studying God's Word.

In another area, a pastor felt a passion for various groups of people living in extremely remote mountains. There are no roads or even paths, but this pastor took the initiative to walk into those remote villages and share the Gospel with those isolated people groups. He did not wait for a committee or the funds to support him, but went where God was calling him.

May we all be enthusiastic and take initiative to see God's work done here as in Heaven!
