RE- FLECTING GOD

11/26/19 - May God Find Us Faithful

RG AUDIO 112619

Malachi 2:10-16

How many relationships do you have in your life? No matter how many relationships you have, each one is important. Each one serves a purpose. Each one has meaning.

We know the destruction that infidelity brings to a marriage. Yet we fail to consider how the same mindset of unfaithfulness can destroy all of our relationships?most importantly, our relationship with God. Our relationships with each other are also significant. He created us for sacred companionship, and I believe that He expects us to cherish each one of those companions. Small disruptions in our relationships can cause massive damage.

When we forget to be good to each other, we are being unfaithful. How might the bonds of love grow stronger if we would choose to remain committed to love without measure, to give without limits, and to live without isolation? Our Father designed us for one purpose: to live in sacred companionship with Him and with others.
