

As The Wind Blows

Description

2 Corinthians 13:1-8

We can't see the wind, yet evidence of its existence frequently manifests itself in our day-to-day comings and goings. Sometimes, the wind is a welcome guest, gently rocking the wind chimes on our porches or keeping us cool on a hot summer's day. On other occasions, the wind musters all its strength and expresses itself in a mighty way, ushering in a violent storm that leaves devastating reminders of how truly powerful it is.

Our great God is faithful and just. We can't see Him with our eyes, yet evidence of God's mighty power is constantly manifesting itself in our day-to-day coming and goings. Sometimes, God's power gently comforts and calms, speaking directly to our hearts. On other occasions, God utilizes His great strength to express His power in a mighty way, doing the impossible just when we need it most, reminding us how truly powerful our God really is. Either way, there is absolutely no questioning the existence of God or His power.
