

Psalm 96

Description

Psalm 96:1-13.

We serve a holy God together. Today, let's simply pray through Psalm 96 as the body of Christ.

Father,

Help us to sing a new song to You, both individually and corporately. We lack the ability to properly praise Your name, so we simply come as we are. We do proclaim Your salvation. For this gift of eternal life, we are truly thankful. We do declare Your glory and Your marvelous works. They are unmatched by any other.

Lord, You are great! You alone are righteous. Only You are worthy to be praised. You are the one, true God. We acknowledge You as the Creator, not just of this world, but also the universe and everything in it. Splendor, majesty, strength, and glory are Yours and Yours alone.

We ascribe to the Lord the glory that Your name demands and deserves. We are an offering as we come into Your courts. We worship You in the splendor of Your holiness; the whole earth trembles before You.

We declare to the nations, God reigns! All of heaven and earth rejoice—the seas, the fields, the forest, everything in all creation. Let all creation declare Your majesty.

In Jesus' name, Amen

Author: Andrea Talley

Date Created

2025/10/05